Step through the door
and hear tales of yore.

The community of Boulder Junction traces its roots back to 1903, when railroad tracks were laid through this beautiful corner of Wisconsin's Northwoods. Though the rail line was built for the shipment of white pine logs, it also became a pipeline for hunters and anglers who flocked to this untouched area. A number of resorts popped up to serve the growing number of vacationers.

In the 1930s, a Chicago sportswriter who regularly vacationed in Boulder Junction coined the phrase, "Musky Capital of the World," a label which stuck, due to the fact that more musky are caught from Boulder Junction area lakes than any other similarly sized area. The phrase was awarded a trademark in 1971.

To learn more about Boulder Junction's history visit the Boulder Junction Historical Museum located next to the community center. The museum is open Memorial Day to Labor Day, Tuesdays and Saturdays from 10am to 2pm. Admission is free. There is also a Boulder Junction History Book available at a number of locations throughout town.

After playing in the woods sleep sounds awfully good.

Snowmobile & Cross-Country Skiing

Snowmobiling

Located within the Lake Superior Snowbelt, the Musky Capital of the World® is also the "Winter Fun Capital of the World!" For snowmobilers, that means more snow and better trail conditions throughout the season. When the snow files, Boulder Junction is the place to be!

The Boulder Junction Snowmobile Club works hard to keep the trails in top condition throughout the winter. Ride 130 miles of well-groomed local trails that connect with thousands more miles of trails stretching across northern Wisconsin and up into the Upper Peninsula of Michigan.

For up-to-date trail reports throughout the winter, visit www.boulderjct.org. More information on area snowmobile trails can be found at www.boulderjunctionsnowmobileclub.org.

Cross-Country Skiing

Abundant snowfall and beautiful trails make Boulder Junction an ideal cross-country skiing destination. Cross-country skiing is available on Escanaba-Palette Lake Trails and Lumberjack Trail. You'll find information for these trails in the Hiking section on page 24.

Cross-country skiing is also available at the Boulder Junction Winter Park, featuring:

- One-mile cross-country skiing and snowshoeing trail
- Regulation-size ice skating rink
- Warming shelter
- Sledding hill
- Picnic pavilion

For more information on the Winter Park or any of the area trails, contact the Chamber office or visit www.boulderjct.org.

Don't you wish you caught this fish?

But the Musky Capital of the World® has more than just muskies — the area also boasts some of the best walleye, bass and panfish angling in the Midwest. Add in the spectacular scenery and you have the perfect fishing destination.

Whether you're a hard-core musky angler, aspiring bass-master, fly-fishing trout hunter or a parent taking their kids out for their first fishing adventure, you're going to love Boulder Junction.

For current fishing reports and more information on area lakes, visit www.boulderjct.org.

You're seeing right.
Two of us are white!

Albino Deer

Boulder Junction is home to an unusually large number of albino deer. Sometimes referred to as white deer or ghost deer, these stunning white-tailed deer are true albinos, exhibiting pure white coats as well as pink noses, ears and hooves. To see one is an unforgettable experience.

Why are there so many albino deer in Boulder Junction? No one knows for sure. It is illegal for hunters to shoot an albino deer, so perhaps this has allowed an existing population of albino deer to grow. Also, due to their uniqueness, people probably feed and look after the albino deer more than other deer.

Whatever the reason, Boulder Junction has more albino deer than any other place in Wisconsin.
